Jonty Lim (林康陽)

- APSA Singapore Country Representative

Based in Singapore, Jonty is APSA's Singapore Country Representative. He oversees APSA's activities in Singapore and the ASEAN region.

Jonty recently relocated back home to Singapore with his family, after an international career that spanned nearly 2 decades.

An attorney by training, he has broad experience in a wide spectrum of work ranging from bank financing, restructuring, and investment banking practices with the law firms of Shearman & Sterling in New York, Herbert Smith Freehills and Eversheds Sutherlands in Hong Kong. Jonty is admitted to practice in New York, England & Wales and Singapore.

Jonty has also practised within the advisory practise of a leading firm in China. He was engaged in numerous leading turnaround and restructuring mandates in the Indo-Pacific region, notably the Lehman Brothers insolvency. Jonty has led and dealt with the flow and proprietary books of leading investment banks and was also involved in some of the more significant shareholders' disputes and estates work in the region.

Jonty begun his career as a demonstrator/ tutor of laws at the business and engineering schools of the Hong Kong University of Science & Technology and has continued his (quasi) academic interest on an adjunct basis at the School of Law at the City University of Hong Kong and at the Hong Kong Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Jonty studied at the Georgetown University Law Centre, the London School of Economics & Political Science, Tsinghua University, National University of Singapore and the University of Buckingham.
